

A MODEL FOR HDR SUPERVISION

Universities have a responsibility to ensure that all postgraduate research candidates are provided with a rich intellectual and academic environment to help them complete their higher degree by research studies. A key element of this environment is supervisor excellence, which is an important predictor of timely and successful doctoral completions.

This model, which represents the structure of a full website, provides an advance organiser for supervisors and addresses just-in-time learning needs for specific information required by supervisors, including rules, policies, guidelines, templates, resources, support services, videos etc.
